

ROSENQUEST CALLED ON TO SETTLE

ROSENQUEST CALLED ON TO SETTLE
Rosencrantz Demands the Fourteenth Street Theatre for Bartley Campbell.

Manager A. M. Palmer, as receiver of the estate of Bartley Campbell, the late playwright now confined in the Midtown Asylum, has authorized ex-Judge Dittenhofer to bring suit against Manager J. Wesley Rosenquest of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, to require him to release an accounting of the profits of the theatre which he has been managing, and to show cause why he should not be removed from the management and the theatre at once to be turned over to Manager Palmer as Playwright Campbell's receiver. Manager Palmer has been contemplating this action for a long time, but it was not until the 9th inst. that he applied to the Supreme Court through ex-Judge Dittenhofer for authority to proceed against Rosenquest in the interest of Playwright Campbell. David F. Colville and Charles E. Webster, executors of the will of the late Manager Samuel Colville, Mrs. Emilie Colville, his widow, and Manager E. G. Gilmore, also made co-defendants in the suit. In the complaint it is set forth that Rosenquest has had no power to authorize the laying of railroad tracks for private advantage. He could not, by any means, make out a sufficient cause for the arrest of the offender.

Superintendent Richardson of the Bureau of Incarceration reported to City Court Clerk Chas. C. Conroy, and requested him to arrest any one who should disturb the pavement or lay any tracks at 330, 332 and 334 West street.

GUESS NOT, MR. GLASS

The Alderman's Permit to Lay Your Railroad Tracks is Worthless.

The Alderman recently passed over the Mayor's veto a resolution empowering John Glass of 330, 332 and 334 West street to construct his place with the Hudson River Railroad tracks by a switch or turnout. The Mayor had pointed out in the veto message that the Alderman had no power to grant the permission, and that Mr. Glass, if he took advantage of it, could be made to remove the tracks under a mandamus or indicted for putting them down. Glass has applied to the Board of Public Works for a permit to disturb the pavement. Yesterday Corporation Counsel recommended advising the department of Justice that the Court of Appeals had held no power to authorize the laying of railroad tracks for private advantage. He could not, by any means, make out a sufficient cause for the arrest of the offender.

Superintendent Richardson of the Bureau of Incarceration reported to City Court Clerk Chas. C. Conroy, and requested him to arrest any one who should disturb the pavement or lay any tracks at 330, 332 and 334 West street.

If Hodges were to keep that fence there," said Mrs. Bergmann, "he'll have to hire an army to watch it."

"The next blizzard that strikes that fence," said Mrs. Bergmann, with a knowing shake of her head, "will be over to Coney Island."

Mr. Bergmann has made application to the Supreme Court for another injunction. A man was asked to swear he had a license, which they refused to grant. Since then he has been awaiting developments.

THE SOUTH BEACH FENCE WAR.

Surveyor's Stakes Pulled Up and Thrown Into the Bay.

Hostilities on the South Beach have been renewed. On Monday afternoon Justice Cullen of the Brooklyn Supreme Court vacated the judgment granted to Henry S. Bergmann restraining Mr. Hodges, one of the numerous claimants to that strip of water, from trespassing on his (Bergmann's) alleged property. Hodges celebrated the victory yesterday by taking down a party of surveyors and workmen, not forgetting to bring along a small detachment of police, who had the land surveyed and the fence torn up. As the surveyors did not attempt to resume work in front of the hotel, there was no further outbreak. By evening a wire fence about 100 feet long was completed between his and Mrs. Miller's hotel, cutting Bergmann's place entirely off.

If Hodges was to keep that fence there," said Mrs. Bergmann, "he'll have to hire an army to watch it."

"Will you give your wife $1.50 a week?" the Justice asked.

"With sir."

"But I don't want it. I want him sent to jail," said the wife.

"I'll do it," said the Justice. "Young man, give bonds to give your wife $2, and go and do the best you can."

Boy Husband and Girl Wife.

A girl in a short dress, carrying an infant in her arms, appeared before Justice Cullen of Williamsburgh as complainant yesterday against Richard Holzman, whom she accused of abandoning her.

"How old are you?" the Justice asked theardless prisoner.

"I am 17 years old," said the boy. "And you?" the Justice asked, nodding to the girl.

"I am 16 years old. I married him four months ago," she said. "He has abandoned me, and don't support me. I want him sent to jail."

The boy husband said he earned $3 a week, but was laid off a few weeks ago.

"Will you give your wife $1.50 a week?" the Justice asked.

"With sir."

"But I don't want it. I want him sent to jail," said the wife.

"I'll do it," said the Justice. "Young man, give bonds to give your wife $2, and go and do the best you can."

Knox Gives Back Hall's Watch.

Robert Knox Jr., who was arrested on a warrant issued at Williamsburgh, was released yesterday. He was treasurer of the late Wellington T. Hall, who was treasurer of the firm of Goldwin & Co., which was arraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday. Mrs. Hall charged Knox with stealing a gold watch and chain from her son during his last illness and while Hall was not his right mind. Knox in his defense said he had given the watch to his son for money, to tide him over, and he had no right to it.

Knox should return the watch to-day. No further proceedings will then be taken against him.

He Took the Police Station for a Saloon.

Capt. Robert O. Webb was seated behind the desk at the Delancey street station house yesterday afternoon when a drunken man entered and said:

"Let her go, steamboat. Give us a beer."

The Captain explained that he had made a mistake and that he was in a police station and not in a saloon. The man, who was drunk, retorted: "I'm not a 16-year-old boy." He was arrested and arraigned before Justice Cullen of the 3rd Precinct Market Police Court, where he was held. The boy, 17, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery. He said that yesterday was the first time in ten years that he had been to a police station, and that it was not his fault. He was fined $10 and in default was locked up.

If Dead Poets Are Dead They Must Be.

Gen. Newton yesterday received from Corporation Counsel Beckman an opinion defining the power of the Department of Public Works and Bureau of Encumberances, to remove electric wires and poles and other fixtures of public electrical control. The Corporation Counsel advised that the Bureau of Encumberances may become entirely satisfied that the removal of such fixtures is necessary, and that may be made what are represented as dead poels.

If you should proceed to remove them, if you find yourself in difficulty, you are not under any such obligation.

All Run Down.

From the weakening effects of warm weather, by hard work or from a lung illness, you need a good tonic and blood purifier. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives a good appetite, strengthens the whole system, purifies the blood, regulates the digestion.

"It afford me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. My self twelve years ago was very poor. Friends thought I was dead, but could not be moved, commended me Hood's Sarsaparilla. Took five bottles of it, and to day I can do a hard's work as ever could. It saves me from the grave and put me on my feet again, healthy man." —WILL R. D. THIBBET, 144 East Main st., Wigginton, Ohio.
